Synopsis

When Ralph and his pesky cousins accidentally make a mess at the Mountain View Inn, Ralph decides that he'd better take his motorcycle and leave. He persuades his young pal Ryan to take him to school, where Ralph is an instant hit with Ryan's classmates. But Ralph doesn't like being told what to do. Worse than that, his precious motorcycle gets broken. Is Ralph stuck at school forever?

Read by William Roberts Two cassettes / 2 hours 4 mins. The world's smartest mouse is back...and he's going to school! When Ralph learns that his old friend Matt, the bellhop at the Mountain View Inn, is going to lose his job because of mice in the hotel, Ralph gets the housekeeper's son to take him to school with him. Ralph the mouse causes quite a sensation in the classroom--and gets quite an education himself. --This text refers to the Library

Great book! I read this series as a child and recently started reading this series with my son recently. We have blown through the books. He adores them and is always begging to read more chapters. There are so difficult words for small children and for children in our modern world. My 6 year old son frequently stop me and asks what some of the words mean. It is great for building up his vocabulary though.

Great book for the young reader. The words aren't difficult but can still challenge a child learning to enjoy reading. My little one--6--has read this and the others in this series at least 3 times now.

Hard to give this one anything less than five stars. I read these books probably three times when I was a kid, and my 6 year-old loved hearing them this time. Just as much fun as I remembered.

I loved this book, now I can share it with my son. He likes it. Easy to hold, there's one picture per chapter, so it is helpful for getting little one's to start using their imagination to 'see' the story in their minds.

Funny, clever, and lots of unexpected surprises. Light reading for kids of all ages. Works best when you read all three books in sequence.

Interesting and fun. I am hoping to read 80 books this year. Goodreads reading challenge. Very much into variety. Thanks .

I enjoyed these books when I was a child. It came in quite handy when my nephew was a little boy and hated reading. I believe the key to creating a love of reading is to give them a subject they will enjoy. He loved dirtbikes. So Ralph S. Mouse it would be. He read all three of the series. Now that he has a baby boy, I thought I better buy them in hardback to make sure I will have copies to last another generation.

My son loves this book! Has read it several times.
