

The book was found

No Green Berries Or Leaves: The Creative Journey Of An Artist In Glass

Synopsis

No Green Berries or Leaves is a collection of autobiographical essays by Paul J. Stankard, recognized widely as one of the world's master glass artists. Stankard is particularly renowned and respected for his flameworked floral motifs expressed in crystal paperweights, rectangular columns, and orbs. Paul was trained in scientific glassblowing and worked in industrial scientific glass during most of the 1960s. Challenged by an inner sense of creativity and the need to establish his creative independence, he started making paperweights in the early 1970s. Attracted to the emerging studio glass movement, recognized as a maker of fine paperweights, and driven by an intense and incessant pursuit of excellence, Paul was by the 1980s recognized as a highly accomplished glass artist, a member of the pioneering generation of glass artists in America. As the emotional, intellectual, and spiritual dimensions of his art matured, and as he continued to develop new techniques for expressing his art, he also assumed more prominent influence in the development of educational programs and institutions that celebrated and expanded art in glass. Throughout his life, Paul also wrestled with, and learned how to succeed in spite of, a learning disability dyslexia. No Green Berries or Leaves presents the author's record of his life as a struggling, then highly successful, artist; reveals insights into the challenges he faced as a dyslexic and how he came to understand, then circumvent, his disability; and records his perspectives on the history of the studio glass movement in America as he witnessed and experienced it during the past fifty years. This book will be of value to readers interested in the life of a major American artist and the history of the glass art movement in America, as well as to those looking for an inspirational story of how, in one man, the human spirit faced, addressed, and outwitted a learning disability and climbed the steep road to success to become a master artist in glass. The hardcover copies of No Green Berries or Leaves offered here are the last available hardcover copies of this title -- they are parts of a limited edition that were autographed by the author, numbered individually from 1 through 300, and dated on the day of release -- 15 September 2007.

Book Information

Hardcover: 248 pages

Publisher: McDonald & Woodward Publishing Company; Original edition (September 15, 2007)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 0939923696

ISBN-13: 978-0939923694

Product Dimensions: 9 x 6.3 x 0.8 inches

Shipping Weight: 1.2 pounds (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 4.5 out of 5 stars 13 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #1,378,548 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #82 in Books > Arts & Photography > Other Media > Glass #371 in Books > Crafts, Hobbies & Home > Crafts & Hobbies > Glass & Glassware #1211 in Books > Biographies & Memoirs > Specific Groups > Special Needs

Customer Reviews

World renowned artist Paul Stankard, who pioneered modern flameworking techniques in glass art, insightfully reflects upon his life-long personal challenges with dyslexia and how he overcame these obstacles in his continuing pursuit of knowledge. As one of the eminent glass artists of the 20th and 21st centuries, his is a story that inspires, educates, and encourages us all. He has earned our deepest admiration. --Dr. Anne Steele, President, Muskingum College, New Concord, OH
America's premier lampworker has written a richly detailed emotional reminiscence of his search to find a meaningful life. This book gives the reader a glimpse into his life and how through extraordinary perseverance he eventually transformed the lampworker's torch from its historic tradition into a compelling tool for contemporary glass artists. --Henry Halam, Kent State University, Kent, OH
In this honest and intimate autobiography, Paul Stankard describes his life and his work in unabashed detail. Guided by his faith and supported by his loving wife and family, he has led an ideal life, not so much out of good fortune, but out of living and working in goodness. Here is a man who has gotten it right, and who has taken the time to share it with us in the very medium that is most difficult for him. We are all the richer for it. --Robert Mickelsen, Glass Artist, Melbourne, FL
America's premier lampworker has written a richly detailed emotional reminiscence of his search to find a meaningful life. This book gives the reader a glimpse into his life and how through extraordinary perseverance he eventually transformed the lampworker's torch from its historic tradition into a compelling tool for contemporary glass artists. --Henry Halam, Kent State University, Kent, OH
In this honest and intimate autobiography, Paul Stankard describes his life and his work in unabashed detail. Guided by his faith and supported by his loving wife and family, he has led an ideal life, not so much out of good fortune, but out of living and working in goodness. Here is a man who has gotten it right, and who has taken the time to share it with us in the very medium that is most difficult for him. We are all the richer for it. --Robert Mickelsen, Glass Artist, Melbourne, FL

Paul Joseph Stankard was born in North Attleboro, Massachusetts, and, during his teens, moved with his family to Wenonah, New Jersey. He graduated from Pitman High School in Pitman, New Jersey, and Salem County Vocational Technical Institute in Salem, New Jersey, and then worked for a number of firms in the scientific glass field in New Hampshire, New York, New Jersey, Virginia, and Pennsylvania until he went into full-time paperweight-making in the early 1970s. He soon became an established and accepted artist in glass, and today is recognized throughout the world for the quality and beauty of his intricately detailed objects of nature especially floral assemblages that are expressed in glass. Paul also regularly participates in programs at such iconic centers of glass-art education as WheatonArts, Salem Community College, Penland School of Crafts, and the Corning Museum of Glass. For nearly forty years, Paul, with his wife Pat and their family, has lived and created art in Mantua, New Jersey.

I'm biased in my review of this book because I have known Paul Stankard personally and studied (briefly) under him. When Bonnie Marx, glass art dealer suggested I buy and read this book, I did so at my earliest opportunity. I became very emotional as I read through Paul's own words which described his struggles as a passionate and motivated but dyslexic individual. I knew something about his career and his love of nature, but did not want to be disappointed by reading a book that fell short of my perception of Mr. Stankard's accomplishments. I was more than satisfied when I read it -- I was deeply moved. I am enamored of true stories that transport the reader through the hero's growth process from frustration to partial success and manage to succeed with page-turning suspense to recreate his experience of artistic and technical breakthrough. I reread books like this one again and again and store them in my library where I will never lose them as a precious resource. I did not know that Paul Stankard had suffered with dyslexia, but I do remember my experience one day in Corning, New York. During an afternoon field trip portion of one of Paul Stankard's classes in paperweight making, he took us into the small wooded area next to the Corning Museum's Studio where we searched for wildflowers. When we discovered one lovely specimen, I was able to identify its scientific name because I was also a lover of wildflowers, and Mr. Stankard seemed pleased that others enjoyed this passion also. I had never even dreamed that an artist could recreate these gems of nature inside glass with such clarity and magnificence. This book takes the reader into the world of creativity in a way that few others can do. Read it and enrich your soul.

This was a straight through read for me. The book showed up Saturday afternoon and could not put it down until I was done. I think in the future I will be able to look back on "No Green Berries or Leaves" as an inspirational high point. I have always possessed the inner creative flame but due to many factors, all self induced, I have never perused them to the point of feeling satisfied. Paul's descriptions of his own trials and tribulations has given me a new perspective and renewed spirit to follow the inner voice. His description of quality and following the dream has run true with me and I hope it will with you as well. Thank you Paul for your honesty and your ability to tell your truly inspirational story.

A fine memoir by one of the world's great glass based artists. His journey to and within his artistic genius reads like how this fine man, whom I have had the pleasure of seeing and demonstrating, talks. He is, simply put, an artistic genius and one amazing and nice guy.

I enjoyed "No Green Berries or Leaves." It was fun to follow Stankard's development, and it brought back memories of my own learning process, too. I especially appreciated the author's frankness in discussing his challenges and occasional struggles along the way. In some respects I think that is the most valuable stuff to share, because it lets students know they are not alone in their struggles.

paul's explanation of his difficulties learning are a wonderful way of explaining a common deficiency among humans, we choose to ignore. the way he worked around it is an inspiration

We know the author of this book so I imagine it will be enjoyable to read. It is a gift so has not been opened yet.

Paul Stankard, by all accounts one of the most recognized and successful glass artists alive today, has collected his experiences from decades of work with hot glass into a small tome of reminiscences. His memories are organized into a dozen and a half essays, loosely chronological but often overlapping, doubling back upon, and fleshing out earlier episodes. Additional materials include 32 full-color pages of photographs after the Epilogue, and an unexpected but handy Index following that. All of this is bundled within a thoughtfully-designed cover that cradles Mr. Stankard's prose in tones of green and cranberry. While short in length (183 pages, not including the Foreword and Preface), No Green Berries or Leaves is densely packed with feeling and reflection. Despite the weight of the material, it is a quick and easy read, owing to the fact that the voice which comes through is Paul's. It resembles more a story he might share over a cup of coffee rather than a piece of print. It is this quality, coupled with the way the book is broken down into small bites of his life rather than chronological chapters, that is the underlying strength of the book. No lofty phrasing or clinical assessments are found here, just plain words written with warmth, thought, and honesty. Paul gives more than just a standard re-telling of how he got here from there. History is interwoven with artistic philosophies, psychological states, and spiritual beliefs, resulting in a story rich with detail and meaning. He relates his youthful dreams, training, and creative yearnings that led to career changes, but also reveals personal struggles with a learning disability, anxiety, and nagging self-esteem issues, all of which culminate in the development of Paul Stankard the artist, family man, friend, mentor, and human being. Several themes are reinforced throughout: hard work, perseverance, the importance of continually educating one's self, harmony with Nature and its Maker, and gratitude, to name a few. Paul is forthright about the difficulties he endured, but also encourages his readers that if he was able to overcome those to become the acknowledged glass master he is, others can do the same through hard work, dedication, and faith in one's abilities. He strives to be an inspiration to others just as he was mentored throughout his career. His appreciation to all of the people who played a part in his journey flows through the pages, another prominent layer to the book and the person. For the paperweight enthusiast, this book offers a rare look into the heart of a master craftsman, delving into what originally inspired him to take up the torch to recreate those lovely handfules of glass, what drives him to push the boundaries of the genre, and how the medium's siren call draws him ever closer into communion with its mysteries.

Download to continue reading...

No Green Berries or Leaves: The Creative Journey of an Artist in Glass Wild Berries & Fruits Field Guide of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan (Wild Berries & Fruits Identification Guides) Nuts and Berries of New England: Tips And Recipes For Gatherers From Maine To The Adirondacks To Long Island Sound (Nuts and Berries Series) How to Grow More Vegetables, Eighth Edition: (and Fruits, Nuts, Berries, Grains, and Other Crops) Than You Ever Thought Possible on Less Land Than You ... (And Fruits, Nuts, Berries, Grains,) Gardening: Hydroponics for Self Sufficiency - Vegetables, Herbs, and Berries (Herbs, Berries, Organic Gardening, Canning, Homesteading, Tomatoes, Food Preservation) Gardening: Hydroponics for Self Sufficiency - Vegetables, Herbs, & Berries (Herbs, Berries, Organic Gardening, Canning, Homesteading, Tomatoes, Food Preservation) Gardening with Foliage First: 127 Dazzling Combinations that Pair the Beauty of Leaves with Flowers, Bark, Berries, and More Leaves Fall Down: Learning About Autumn Leaves American Medicinal Leaves And Herbs; Guide To Collecting Herbs and Using Medicinal Herbs and Leaves The Graphic Designer's Digital Toolkit: A Project-Based Introduction to Adobe Photoshop Creative Cloud, Illustrator Creative Cloud & InDesign Creative Cloud (Stay Current with Adobe Creative Cloud) The

Watercolor Flower Artist's Bible: An Essential Reference for the Practicing Artist (Artist's Bibles)
Pastel Artist's Bible: An Essential Reference for the Practicing Artist (Artist's Bibles) Glass Notes: A Reference for the Glass Artist The Glass Artist's Studio Handbook: Traditional and Contemporary Techniques for Working with Glass (Studio Handbook Series) The Starving Artist's Lampwork Project Book: How to create unique art glass items using glass rods & tubes and a torch ART GLASS - Breaking Glass To Make Money: A Beginners Guide To Making Money With Art Glass - Copper Foil And Lead Explained (Volume 1) LEED v4 Green Associate Exam Guide (LEED GA): Comprehensive Study Materials, Sample Questions, Green Building LEED Certification, and Sustainability (Green Associate Exam Guide Series) (Volume 1) LEED GA MOCK EXAMS (LEED v4): Questions, Answers, and Explanations: A Must-Have for the LEED Green Associate Exam, Green Building LEED Certification, ... Green Associate Exam Guide Series (Volume 2) Green Cheeked Conure parrots as pets. Green Cheek Conure Keeping, Care, Housing, Pros and Cons, Health and Diet. Green Cheek Conure parrot owners manual. Hal Jordan and the Green Lantern Corps Vol. 3: Quest for Hope (Rebirth) (Green Lantern - Hal Jordan and the Green Lantern Corps (Rebi))

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help