

The book was found

A Mother's Cry: A Memoir Of Politics, Prison, And Torture Under The Brazilian Military Dictatorship

Synopsis

During the late 1960s and early 1970s, Brazil's dictatorship arrested, tortured, and interrogated many people it suspected of subversion; hundreds of those arrested were killed in prison. In May 1970, Marcos P. S. Arruda, a young political activist, was seized in São Paulo, imprisoned, and tortured. A Mother's Cry is the harrowing story of Marcos's incarceration and his family's efforts to locate him and obtain his release.

Marcos's mother, Lina Penna Sattamini, was living in the United States and working for the U.S. State Department when her son was captured. After learning of his arrest, she and her family mobilized every resource and contact to discover where he was being held, and then they launched an equally intense effort to have him released. Marcos was freed from prison in 1971. Fearing that he would be arrested and tortured again, he left the country, beginning eight years of exile. Lina Penna Sattamini describes her son's tribulations through letters exchanged among family members, including Marcos, during the year that he was imprisoned. Her narrative is enhanced by Marcos's account of his arrest, imprisonment, and torture. James N. Green's introduction provides an overview of the political situation in Brazil, and Latin America more broadly, during that tumultuous era. In the 1990s, some Brazilians began to suggest that it would be best to forget the trauma of that era and move on. Lina Penna Sattamini wrote her memoir as a protest against historical amnesia. First published in Brazil in 2000, A Mother's Cry is testimonial literature at its best. It conveys the experiences of a family united by love and determination during years of political repression.

Book Information

Paperback: 208 pages

Publisher: Duke University Press Books (June 9, 2010)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 0822347369

ISBN-13: 978-0822347361

Product Dimensions: 6.2 x 0.5 x 9.5 inches

Shipping Weight: 11.2 ounces (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 5.0 out of 5 stars 1 customer review

Best Sellers Rank: #673,996 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #145 in Books > History > Americas > South America > Brazil #329 in Books > Biographies & Memoirs > Historical > Latin America #683 in Books > Textbooks > Humanities > History > Latin America

Customer Reviews

"A Mother's Cry is the story of a Brazilian mother who, while living in the United States in the 1960s, learns by mail of her son's kidnapping by agents of Brazil's military regime. Without immediate means to locate her son, there is only his grandmother in Brazil to initially confront the dictatorship's atrocity establishment. The stuff of a great film, A Mother's Cry juxtaposes their efforts to secure the young man's release with his strategies for surviving brutalizing physical and potentially spirit-breaking torture. This great book joins the yet unconnected literatures on human agency, big and small, that run from the Holocaust, to Argentina's mothers and grandmothers of the Plaza de Mayo, to Cambodian survivors of S-21 prison, to recent accounts of CIA rendition victims. This impressive book is must reading."

•Martha K. Huggins, Tulane University

"A family's chance descent into the indignities of Brazil's military dictatorship is uncompromisingly recorded in nearly a decade of letters penned across continents; so too is the inextinguishable hope to set free a son, grandson, and brother. Arbitrarily imprisoned, brutally tortured, and subsequently whisked abroad to safety, Marcos P. S. Arruda would then face years of difficult rehabilitation. His is the tale of many a political prisoner; but, fortunate to escape with his life, he has ever since borne witness against the oppression, corruption, and brutality of authoritarian regimes, their supporters, and their protectors the world over."

•Ralph Della Cava, Columbia University

"... this tale of mother and son brings to light a never to be forgotten break in Brazil's long-standing history of democracy." (Linda S. Maier Bulletin of Latin American Research)

"A Mother's Cry should rank among the foremost publications of the testimonial genre and is suitable for a broad, interdisciplinary audience interested in human rights, resistance, and social justice." (Cathy Marie Ouellette History)

"This work provides ample detail of the tortures inflicted by the OBAN secret police." | This book is a memorable and highly readable human story and source that has gained a new relevancy since its publication. (Philip Evanson The Americas)

"A family's chance descent into the indignities of Brazil's military dictatorship is uncompromisingly recorded in nearly a decade of letters penned across continents; so too is the inextinguishable hope to set free a son, grandson, and brother. Arbitrarily imprisoned, brutally tortured, and subsequently whisked abroad to safety, Marcos P. S. Arruda would then face years of difficult rehabilitation. His is the tale of many a political prisoner; but, fortunate to escape with his life, he has ever since borne witness against the oppression, corruption, and brutality of authoritarian regimes, their supporters, and their protectors the world over."--Ralph Della Cava, Columbia University

This testimonial of a mother's search for her son during Brazil's dictatorship is engrossing and at times almost unbearable to read. Lina Sattamini's account of her family's Kafkaesque struggle to reclaim her son from the military's clutches is movingly portrayed via letters between family members interspersed with narrative. Marcos Arruda's epilogue describing in an appropriately jagged and flashback style his experience of the torture that nearly killed him followed by nine terrifying months in prison is both literary and devastating. Finally, James Green's cogent introduction provides the context of Brazil's descent into an increasingly savage totalitarianism, for those unfamiliar with this history. The U.S.'s vigorous support of and involvement with torture becomes even more shocking when one relives its consequences on this loving family and on Arruda himself, a young idealist innocent of any crime. A must-read for anyone interested in human rights or life under a Latin American dictatorship. By the end, readers too will declare, "Nunca Mais!" (Never Again.) For a work documenting exhaustively U.S.-Brazil relations in this time, including movements to raise awareness about and stop U.S. aid to the Brazilian junta, see Green's We Cannot Remain Silent: Opposition to the Brazilian Military Dictatorship in the United States.

Download to continue reading...

A Mother's Cry: A Memoir of Politics, Prison, and Torture under the Brazilian Military Dictatorship
Easy Portuguese Cookbook: 50 Authentic Portuguese and Brazilian Recipes (Portuguese Cookbook, Portuguese Recipes, Portuguese Cooking, Brazilian Cookbook, Brazilian Recipes, Brazilian Cooking Book 1)
Cry of the People: United States Involvement in the Rise of Fascism, Torture, and Murder and the Persecution of the Catholic Church in Latin America
Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu: The Ultimate Guide to Dominating Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu and Mixed Martial Arts
Combat Brazil: Travel Guide for Men, Travel Brazil Like You Really Want to (Brazil Travel Book, Brazilian Escorts, Body Massages, Brazilian Girls, Rio De Janeiro Travel Guide)
Mastering The 21 Immutable Principles Of Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu: The Ultimate Handbook for Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu Students
The Less You Know, the Better You Sleep: Russia's Road to Terror and Dictatorship under Yeltsin and Putin
Art Against Dictatorship: Making and Exporting Arpilleras Under Pinochet (Louann Atkins Temple Women & Culture)
Haiti: I See, I Cry, I Find Hope In Jesus (text only) (Haiti: I See I Cry)
Paraguay History: Discovery and Settlement, Independence and Dictatorship, the Society, the Economy, Government, Politics, People, Culture
State Terrorism and the Politics of Memory in Latin America: Transmissions Across The Generations of Post-Dictatorship
Uruguay, 1984-2004
The Naturalist on the Rivers: A Record of the Adventures, Habits of Animals, Sketches of Brazilian and Indian Life, and Aspects of

Nature under the Equator, during Eleven Years of Travel Trying To Understand Brazilian Culture:
Memoir of a Brit in São Paulo Bedita Da Silva: An Afro-Brazilian Woman's Story of Politics and Love In the Water They Can't See You Cry: A Memoir Warriors Don't Cry: A Searing Memoir of the Battle to Integrate Little Rock's Central High Falcon's Cry: A Desert Storm Memoir Social Origins of Dictatorship and Democracy: Lord and Peasant in the Making of the Modern World Napoleon and His Collaborators: The Making of a Dictatorship From Development to Dictatorship: Bolivia and the Alliance for Progress in the Kennedy Era (The United States in the World)

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help