Founded in 1915 as the Cartographic Group, the first division of National Geographic, National Geographic Maps has been responsible for illustrating the world around us through the art and science of mapmaking. Today, National Geographic Maps continues this mission by creating the world's best wall maps, recreation maps, atlases, and globes which inspire people to care about and explore their world.

Bought it to have just in case I get lost in a dirt road out here in AZ, BUT I'll need a magnifying glass lol. The Buckhorn Wash Rd. is not even in here either, just North of Lake Pleasant ... I wonder what other dirt roads are missing. I recommend buying some trail guides, this is just a backup.

Nice selection of maps that range from large to small areas. Contains information that most drivers would find useful. That breakdown of different land management areas gets me confused but I do not use that feature much. I have almost all the available Benchmark atlases because I find them useful when we are out in the rv and want to do some exploring or find a campground.

I have purchased both the Washington and Oregon Benchmark Road & Recreation Atlas, and now the Arizona Map/Atlas. These are indispensable if you are going to new places that are off an Interstate Highway. The level of detail is perfect for any outdoors person. Shown are virtually every public campground, forest road, river, stream, and boat launch, and even towns with populations of 50 and less. The editors thought the atlas through so that ANYONE can use it immediately upon receipt. I will never go back to folding maps. An excellent atlas!

just like the other reviews, not much more detail for large portions of the state than you get in a basic, free, state-issued road map. bought for out-of-the-way places, which were not on the map.

If you are into off-road driving but maybe not a dare-devil, these guides are the best. I purchased a Utah version a few years ago after using 'not-to-scale' off-roading maps. These are far superior outlining the types of roads (4x4, high clearance, etc.) - A must-have, since you often lose cell service when you get off the grid!

Good map, but I've noticed that most of the mines, abandoned or active are not listed. Still a well made and visually impressive map with a lot of detail.

Very cool. Solves a lot of the questions that begin with "...I wonder how far..." or ..How long do you think it would take to drive to..." Just had it out yesterday. Lots of fun to plan trips with. It will get lots of use in the years to come.

Best map book out there. This is the second one we have ordered. We lost the first after 5 years
