Such a fun and inspirational coloring book. It's almost too cute to color! Almost, but it will be even cuter once colored. I think I am going to order enough to gift all my teenage nieces and to have to give as high school graduation gifts.

The devotionals are well written and thoughtful; the pages are busy enough to keep you engaged for quite some time and allow for a lot of creative coloring!

Love love this devotional..hits on so many topics common to girls from young to old and does so in a refreshing way. I LOVE her whimsical art and creative writing. I was so interested in each devo I almost read the entire book in one sitting! This will be one I buy for many gifts!

This is by far the best adult coloring book I have seen. The devotional topics are great and the messages in the devotionals are great. I love the color pages as well they are scripture that you color. At the back of the coloring book there are blank pages to write prayer requests or notes or answered prayers. I gave this coloring book 5 stars and I HIGHLY recommend it. It would make a fantastic gift as well. I received this coloring book from the publisher for review. A favorable was not required and all views expressed are my own.

Be Bold is a new release by Tyndale Publishers of a tweens' inspirational coloring book. This coloring book is more of a half coloring book, half devotional. Each page layout has a devotional on one side and then a corresponding coloring page next to it. I do kinda wish that the corresponding coloring page was on the back/front of the devotional so that if you wanted to tear it out and give it to encourage a friend, you could. Additionally, I wish the pages were perforated so that you could actually tear and give them out! The pages are thick enough to bear down on when coloring without ripping them, and while the description lists that there are 80 pages, potential buyers should be aware that are 12 journal pages and 1 advertisement page at the end, so you are really only getting about 30 inspirational coloring pages once you total up the pages used for devotionals, journaling, and advertising. With that said, I thought the devotionals were very inspirational and the drawings creative (albeit busy). This would be a great gift for tween and teen girls though, with the doodle-style drawings to color in that help you to meditate on the devotionals' messages while you let your creative juices flow. I think this is a cute, fun gift to encourage girls to study the word of God. Thank you to Tyndale Publishers for providing me with a copy of this book to review. Be Bold is a brand new coloring devotional book by Ellen Elliott. The engaging cover challenges one to be bold with its stand out illustration. We all want to be bold but sometimes we need a bit of a boost. This book just screams "Open me and take a look inside" making it a thoughtful gift for yourself or for that special someone in your life. I feel that this devotional is best suited for teenage girls with it being full of content most applicable to that age range. Topics covered include self-image, joy, peace, hope, the importance of prayer, waiting on God, and much more. All the lessons taught I feel any age could glean from but the content is specifically written it seems for the younger crowd. There are 31 devotions total and many blank pages at the end of the book to use for notes, thoughts, or whatever else one wishes. The art to color within stands out and ties into the corresponding devotional for each day exceptionally well. The scripture pictures to color are depicted in stylized fonts surrounded with images of flowers, hearts, shapes, and other fun doodle type illustrations. The pages are thick and many different art mediums such as crayons, gel pens, markers, and colored pencils work well on the pages. I had very minimal bleeding through to the other page of ink when using markers. I feel the 9.99 price tag is a good price for the devotional content and illustrations to color within. I definitely recommend and feel it hits the mark for the audience intended!
