Islam And The Economic Challenge (Islamic Economics)

Synopsis

There is a need for a clear picture of the program Islam has to offer to realize the kind of well-being it envisages. Of special interest is a strategy that would help reduce to manageable limits the imbalances that most countries are now experiencing. This book is an effort to address these issues.

Muhammad Umer Chapra is Research Advisor at the Islamic Research and Training Institute (IRTI) of the Islamic Development Bank (IDB), Jeddah. Prior to this position, he worked at the Saudi Arabian Monetary Agency (SAMA), Riyadh, for nearly 35 years, retiring as Senior Economic Advisor. He has also taught as Assistant and Associate Professor of Economics at the University of Wisconsin (Platteville) and the University of Kentucky, Lexington; as Senior Economist and Associate Editor of the Pakistan Development Review at the Pakistan Institute of Development Economics; and as Reader (Associate Professor) at the Central Institute of Islamic Research (Pakistan). He is a prolific writer having authored 15 books and monographs, as well as many papers and book reviews. (2008).

This book provides new insight into how various economic systems (marxism, communism, social welfare states of Europe, and now capitalism) have or are failing to lift up the poor in the society out of poverty, with the eventual collapse of some of the economic systems. The 20th Century has been a triumph of Capitalism, and its end is nearing (look at the statistics of poverty rate in the US). There is a better and more humane economic system for those who are searching. Read on, and be ready to be surprised and enlightened.
