Whatever Arises, Love That: A Love Revolution That Begins With You

Synopsis

“In a World of Endless Questions, Love Is the Only Answer.” There is a loving intelligence at the core of your being that can lead you to the fulfillment of your highest destiny. Four words hold the secret to accessing it: whatever arises, love that. With Whatever Arises, Love That, Matt Kahn presents an unabridged reading of his life-changing book, offering you a series of deeply healing insights and practices to ignite the spark of your highest potential. An Invitation to Open the Heart and Live As Love

“Since receiving the insights to offer loving what arises as the foundational core of my teachings,” writes Matt Kahn, “I began to see people at every level of spiritual development heal old wounds, release lingering conditioning, and unravel so much fear, frustration, and confusion to reveal the Truth of their eternal nature in the most direct and heart-centered way. Soon, a Love Revolution was created on a global scale, where personal differences were set aside to unite families, neighbors, communities, and countries in the importance of awakening unconditional love for the well-being of all.”

If you haven’t been persuaded to buy the book by all the other 5-star reviews, then perhaps you have a skeptical mind like mine. Maybe you have an inclination towards rational argumentation, inquiry and critical thinking that makes a book all about "irrational" love seem off-putting. At the same time perhaps you have seen Matt Kahn on Youtube and found that what he was saying appealed to something within you, and sometimes even made perfect sense. Well, my friend, you have nothing to lose and everything to gain by reading this book. To prove my point, I just flipped open to a random page where Kahn writes, "...the doubt and skepticism many people had toward these [spiritual] topics made me feel like I was on the wrong planet" (33). It’s clear to me, at least, that Matt isn't the only to feel this way. Many of us growing up in the world find that other people try to get us to agree to things that don't turn out to be true, so we become skeptics to protect ourselves from falsehood. At the same time there is part of us that feels drawn to topics traditionally reserved for "religion and spirituality," perhaps because of existential impulses or a desire to feel peace or express ourselves with joy and love (as when we were kids). Our doubting mind can be resistant to engage with these topics because it doesn't want to feel cheated later on if it "all turns out to be a bunch of lies." For the skeptics, my advice is to focus on the things in the book that make perfect sense, and work up from there. For example, maybe you have had someone give you a compliment before and felt how nice it is, so that when Kahn writes about the "healing power of a compliment," it's very easy to see what he's saying and to begin practicing it. In my experience, after a while of working with simple loving practices like this one, the doubting mind becomes less resistant as something in you begins to open up again. Maybe in time we come to see that the power and experience of "unconditional love" is enough to make us realize that we don't need to justify why we love. It is "love beyond reason" because it transcends reason. Not a backward step but a forward one. I hope that this finds you well, and that you become ever happier as you journey on. Love -- Paul

Matt Kahn is a visionary teacher, poet and wonderful soul. His teachings and unique voice bring me to a place of peace, healing and safety that I've never experienced before. The message of love is so simple and we all hold this in our hearts. Matt Kahn challenges us to behold the magic and healing power of this ever-present love and call it into action every single moment of our precious lives. "I LOVE YOU" is the call to action. I've joined the love revolution embodied in this book and recommend it to all who feel this void in their lives. Love truly is the answer and Whatever Arises, Love That shows us how to hold. Five Stars my friends.

With every word that is encoded in this book I feel deep sensation of PURE UNCONDITIONAL LOVE. With every mantra that I say I feel more LIGHTER and LIGHTER, as old programming and energetic blockages get RELEASED from my energy field. This book is going to REWRITE your subconscious mind while you reading it. I never had the privilege before to read so powerful book from the hundreds of spiritual and self help books that I already read, that transform me so deeply into the light. 'Whatever Arises, Love That' is the most potent, powerful and longest TRANSMISSION of LOVE, that planet EARTH has ever known by far. Give yourself this gift and please PURCHASE this book NOW, to transform your life and spread the LOVE REVOLUTION across the GLOBE.

I am so excited that Matt Kahn's book is finally out!. His powerful presence radiates throughout the book, offering a gift of energetic support for our journey through life. He offers practical ways to become friends once again with the innermost, innocent nature of our own hearts. Like his abundant and heartfelt YouTube videos, his book leads us into the new paradigm of spiritual adventure--the Love Revolution.

Matt Kahn is an amazing teacher and having been to two of his retreats I can tell you he is the real deal! Since I was introduced to him a little over a year ago I really pay little if any attention to anyone else out there in the spiritual teaching world. I feel as if everyone else is rehashing the same old, same old. Matt's stuff is radical, different and really works! He's living in the 5th dimension (and maybe beyond that!) and knows how to get us there. Matt will blow your mind! No one else out there, that I know of, can even come close to his teachings. Get this book, join the love revolution. You'll be so happy that you did!

This book finally pulls together all of his teachings onto one manual that you can refer to in your spiritual journey. The more you read it the more you learn and find new things. The energy within the book is incredible. You can feel it radiate as you read each word and continues to build as you hold it within your hands. Some of the mantra and teaching were new to me and I have watch Matt's videos, attended two Angel Academies, and listened to many retreat videos. This is truly a special book. I have just recently purchased three more books to give to others. Do yourself a favor and get it. Its the best gift that you will give to yourself and those around you.
