Soon you'll be hunting for more projects, or making up your own as a craft-lacing expert. Time to get crafting! Inside you'll find: 17 fun projects for zipper pulls, key chains and bracelets Essential skills for stitching, braiding and knotting Both 4-strand and 6-strand techniques Imaginative designs for columns, fishtails, ankhs, hearts & more Easy-to-follow weaving diagrams and colorful photos of finished projects

Phyllis Damon began her career teaching weaving and supplying craft materials in educational settings. David Kominz, a retired NIH medical researcher, joined forces with Phyllis in the creation and publication of craft books. Together with master designer of plastic lacing, David Hall, they turned out three plastic lacing books. Their goal has been to help kids have fun and develop creativity through basic craft skills.

This book is really helpful for beginners and my 10 year old loves this! She uses it everyday with her gimp to make cute things!!! I highly recommend this book for beginner gimpers :)

Bought this book and lanyards for a family vacation with niece and nephews ranging from 8 to 14. It had cute lanyard designs but the kiddos could not interpret the directions and illustrations and needed adults to help translate. Even the adults had a hard time.

I'm in the Big Brother Big Sister program. I bought this for my Little Sister. She loves it. Great activity to bond over.

Looked through it before I wrapped it as a gift and I learned some things I didn't know
Instructions seemed easy and hopefully niece will enjoy it

This book is very small. It is only 18 pages. I just don't think it was worth the money.

Perfect just what I was looking for

Bought for my sons and they really liked all the different ways to make lanyards.

Bought for 2 10 year olds and they loved it
